

Seton Hall Law School Orientation

Instructions for Students | 8.18.2023

Please bring your "culture box" to orientation on August 18, 2023. This will be used during your orientation session on Lawyering Day.

A culture box contains at least three items that represent important parts of your life story and life experiences. Please be sure that at least two of your items focus on your "social identities." ("Social identities" include, for example, race, ethnicity, gender, sex, age, ability status, religion, sexual orientation, socioeconomic class, or nationality). The "box" should help others gain a deeper understanding of who you are. Please think hard about what to put into your "box." Be sure to respect your preferences regarding privacy, but at the same time, please try to find items that will help others understand you in a more profound way. Think of things that others might not know about you. Consider challenges and hardships as well as joyous aspects of your life. If your item or items will be difficult to physically bring to orientation, you can bring in a picture of your item to share.

This activity is derived from the University of Michigan, Intergroup Dialogue Workshops.
